Whereas, different plans for accomplishing the objects have been advanced from time to time, but without result, therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives: That the governor is requested, as soon as may be, to appoint five persons to consider these subjects and report to the next session, not later than September 1, 1918, their findings and conclusions thereon, and to submit to the governor a proposed bill covering the whole subject of the civil and criminal courts. Said committee to consist of two lawyers and three laymen and the members thereof to receive no pay for their services but their actual and necessary expenses.

There was nothing mandatory about this resolution, but has the governor appointed any such committee? Has such a report been filed with such a bill annexed? If so, certainly the facts have been most successfully concealed from the public.

The question of State expenses is very serious and very urgent, and every true citizen will desire the most complete knowledge possible on the subject, and nothing will be gained by the time-worn method of smoothing things over and assuring the people that all is well.

Members of the Legislature, who will be elected next week, should think of these things straight and know what the facts are.
